Participants agree to participate in good faith for the purpose of jointly innovating and inventing solutions relevant to the selected topic, as agreed in these Terms and Conditions.

Participants and participation

Participation is in teams, that should optimally consist of 6-8 members. You can sign up with an organized group in advance or find one using our website.

Participants will be required to create and develop a product that may be relevant to the challenges defined and published in the JLMedathon website/facebook page.

As heterogenous the teams will be is better.

Working Before The Hackathon

All code, design, development, business plans and assets must be created during the Hackathon and not before. We want to ensure that all participants start off on the same point. You are, however, free to make plans, brainstorm and study relevant technology prior to the event (at the "pre-hack" event or independently). The only exception to this rule would include using material that is freely available to the public, such as public domain images and open source libraries. We take this rule very seriously for the sake of all members attending the event. Failure to comply may result in the offending team's disqualification.

Ownership

All teams retain full ownership of what they have created during the Hackathon. By participating in the Hackathon, each participant represents and warrants that his/her ideas is and will be their own original work and does not and will not knowingly infringe the intellectual property or proprietary rights, including, without limitation, any third-party patents, copyrights or trademarks

The Sponsor and Partners do not and will not claim ownership of any Entry to the Hackathon. JLMedathon is here to help entrepreneurs realize their dreams, not destroy them.

Logistics

Since we have limited resources we can only provide food, drinks and other swag to the Hackathon contestants. In order to identify you, you will be asked to wear you JLMedathon Hackathon T-shirt the whole time.

We are guests in the URBAN PLACE building, please keep your environment clean.

LETS GET IT STARTED!

Hack, meet new people, get creative, and have a good time. Getting something meaningful done within such a short amount of time can be stressful, but we'd like to encourage everyone to take a break every now and then to relax and enjoy the event.

Attendees violating these rules may be asked to leave the Hackathon at the sole discretion of the Hackathon organizers. Thank you for your cooperation.
